BO

ONCE you looked at your reflection in the mirror or in a puddle of water and asked, WHO AM I? WHY AM I HERE? And from somewhere came the answer or will come the answer.

You are the student. You are not the same. You are a part of and, sometimes, apart from. You are from the steel and concrete cities of the nation; from the wide, good-smelling earth farms; and you are from the small towns of South Carolina, come into the world from behind the mountain's barricade, from off the sandy beaches to here, Wofford College, where, for one year or four, you have laughed and cried, praised and damned. You have worked and loved and laughed because you are young and know that life is good.

Within these pages we hope you will find your laughter and your tears, your broken pencils and broken hearts, and your dreams; but more, we hope you will find something of the things you have given Wofford and those she has given you.

HEMIAN

DR. LEWIS P. JONES

Many men achieve success and experience greatness, but not all of them show a true devotion to the institution through which these achievements are gained. He to whom this yearbook is dedicated has not only achieved success and greatness, himself, but has also devoted many years to establishing the success and greatness which is associated with Wofford. It is in sincere appreciation for his devotion that we dedicate the 1962 BOHEMIAN to DR. LEWIS P. JONES.

As Professor of history, Dr. Jones has enlightened the minds of countless students in their pursuit of knowledge. As a member of the Publications Board, and chairman for many years, he has given devoted guidance to the college's journalistic achievements.

Noted for his slow manner, his subtle wit, and his unique enthusiasm in model railroads, Dr. Jones has become as much a part of Wofford as "Old Main."

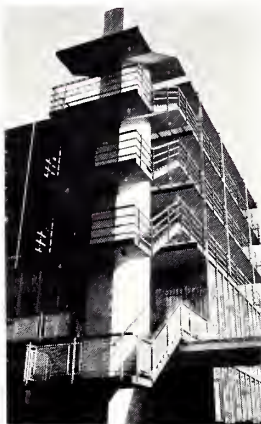

It is with highest praise and great pleasure that we dedicate the 1962 BOHEMIAN to you, Dr. Jones, with an unquestionable certainty that you will continue to serve Wofford in the coming years as well as you have in the past.

FALL ...

The fall is a good time. We remember it here. We remember how long the hot weather stayed, and then, in November, the coming of cool nights. Blue skies and red leaves—a new suit and a new girl to impress.

There came a crispness in us with the coming of the cold and the football games, the rushing and the parties; a crispness and an eagerness for something we did not know or do not remember. The fall is a good time.

We came on a warm Sunday afternoon to where we would live, most of us, for four years. It was new and different and a little like we had expected. We knew that we were new. We wore a tag that told us who we were, but no one else knew . . .

Lines, tests, and waiting, waiting, waiting.

"Would you rather make model airplanes or mudpies?"

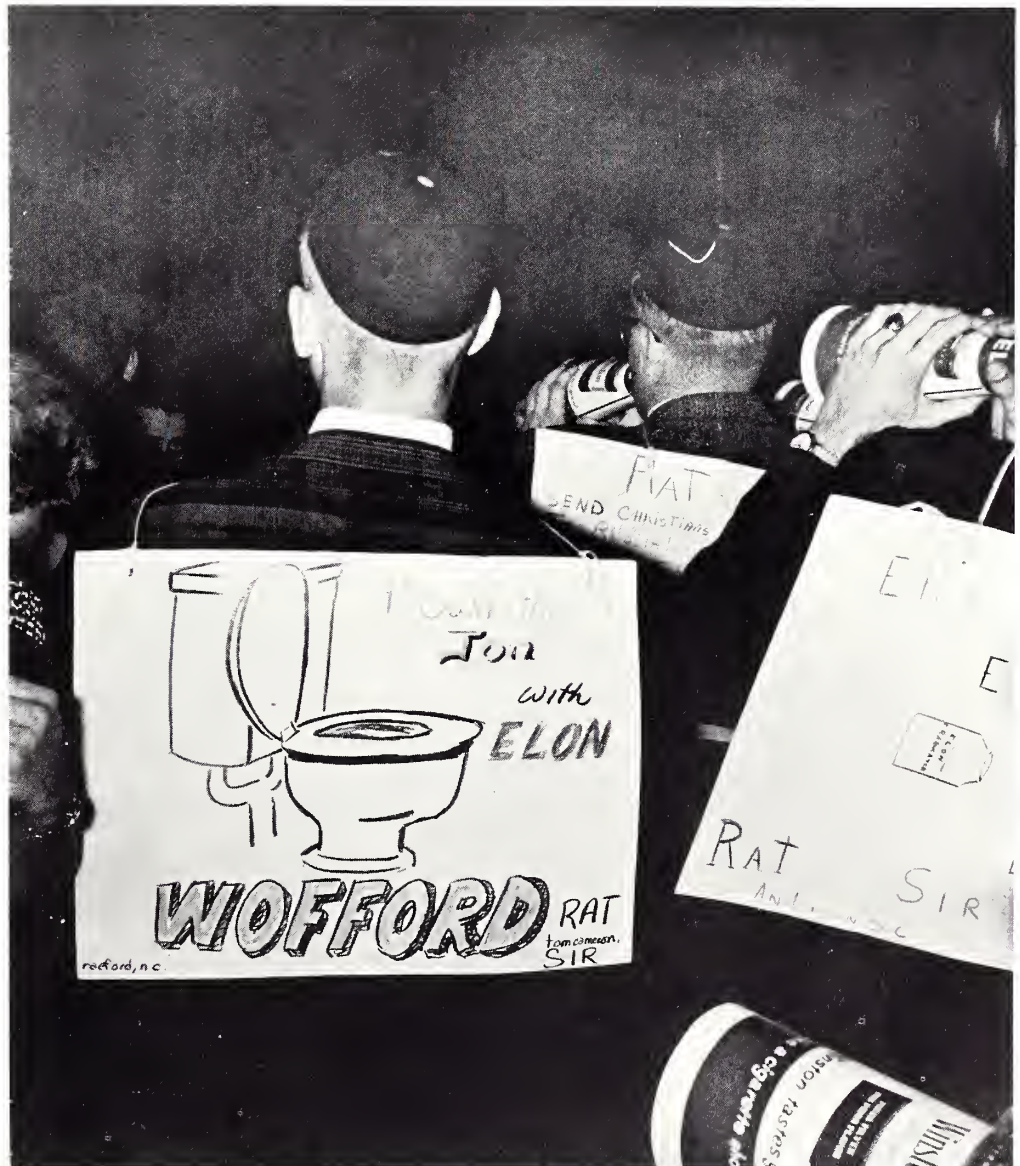

"MR. Harry Bryant, Sir" watches his rats as they file down N. Church to begin the long race to the 'Verse.

And down they went!

After the tests and the long afternoons in the fieldhouse, we learned who we were—for two weeks. "You are the lowest form of life on the campus, and don't you forget it, RAT!"

We shined shoes and ran errands and made our signs; we raced around the football field and we raced to Converse, and then we beat the sophomores in the tug-o-war and looked forward to next year.

Football season was here almost before the loyalty, but it didn't take long. The desire to win was strong, and the team didn't let us down—often. We picked up our dates at Converse and Limestone and Winthrop and passed proudly before the crowd. That night we were a part of with our umbrella, our Gant shirt, our new coat, and, yes, with our date. A face in the crowd and glad to be in the crowd that rose to its feet when the "Rocket" went over. It was a warm, pleasant feeling.

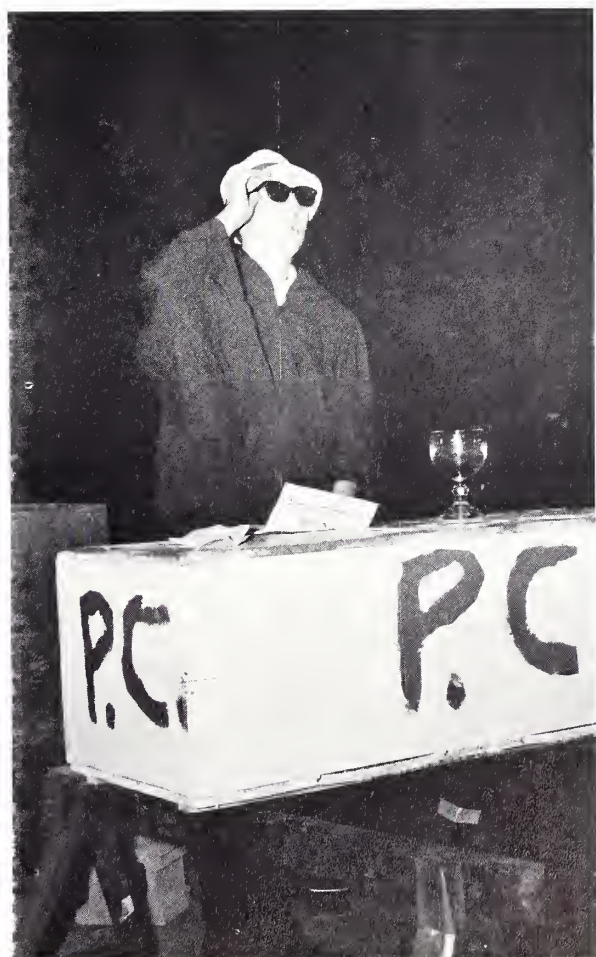

Alert bench anxiously follows the play of a hard-fought game.

Happy rats tear up their signs as the Terriers go over for the first TD.

The Rev. Mr. James Ruben was the attending minister at the final rites of the Blue Hose.

The PiKAs work hard on the last-minute touches of their display.

Yes, football season was good, and, finally, Homecoming. This was what we had waited for. Our girl was coming—we had not seen her in longer than we cared to think about; and our parents would be here also. The campus was beautiful—there was the color of the fraternity decorations, the excitement of crowning the Homecoming Queen, the spectacle of the game, and finally, the twisting tumult at the dance. We felt good. We felt like a Wofford man.

The 1961 Homecoming Queen, Miss Joanne Locurcio.

"It feels so good. . . ."

The Kappa Sigs entertain during the fraternity drop-in.

Big bad Johnny G.

Still, at night sometimes, we felt alone. We had our friends, but these were the times we missed our homes and felt apart from.

A group—an official group with pocket flasks and Greek-letter insignia and secrets—yes, a group to identify with; and they do seem to like me . . .

Will they like me, enough? It only takes one. Maybe I shouldn't 've started. I don't know which way to go. Where's Tom going?

We stayed late asking these questions, and then we knew. It was over, and we knew we had done the right thing.

Don tended bar while the Kappa Sigs impressed 'em.

The Sons of Bobby charge out to greet a new pledge.

The talented Fish and Fred entertain SAE rushees.

The PiKAs enthusiastically rush some of their many prospects.

The Kappa Sigs proudly show off their patio to a number of rushees.

We crucified ourselves over a cup of coffee.

Now we had established our identity. People no longer had to refer to a name tag to know who we were. We thought this as we walked through the fading light to supper and cheerfully spoke to another face.

But sometimes there was the loneliness. We sat in the canteen with a cup of coffee and carried the world on our shoulders. We crucified ourselves over a cup of coffee—and for whom? Maybe we remembered a lost and forgotten time where a face we once knew smiled at us. Then we swallowed the coffee and closed the windows of our mind and left.

In our dorm, over the clanking of the radiators, we read old letters and wrote new ones. We awaited our turn for the new Playboy and we awaited our place at the lavatory on Saturday night.

Our dorm was a place we despised and a home we learned to love. It was too noisy when we wanted to study and too empty when we needed laughter but only had the clanking radiators.

WINTER

Then the winter came. It came cold and hard and brought with it the promise of snow. Things died in the winter, it seemed—azaleas and the bird's song and desire. It was a dead time marked with studying and tests and the long-awaited holiday, after which we returned to the routine of food we couldn't like and books we didn't like. We were tired of it. After a while we became tired of the snow even, which had been fun at first. Winter was a dead time.

DR. C. C. NORTON

With the winter came the end of football and the beginning of basketball and the excited anticipation of Christmas. Dr. C. C. Norton intensified that excitement with his annual reading of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol—one "Wofford tradition" we won't soon forget.

Humbug!!!

"Me too . . ."

Jay "glides away."

Buddy "Night Train" Morrow

Out of the tests and the dexadrine-nights came the Winter Ball, and all the happy expectation was augmented by the promise of a long-awaited, much-needed holiday.

There was magic that night—magic made by Buddy Morrow and a pale green dress and a soft kiss. That night the world of books and discipline was far away, far below.

And when the dance was over, we glided away from a dream to a dream and a goodnight kiss.

We returned to the monotony—monotony broken by weekend escapes and basketball games. Eagerly but sadly, we saw the seniors playing in their last games at Wofford—colorful Boyce Berry, a four-year standout; dangerous, aggressive Ronnie Russell; and the small, ever reliable “Winkie” must have scored two.

The Kappa Sigs intensely watch the action of their "Bouncin' Boyce".

Charlie Cluff and we watched the fantastic freshman George "Winkie" Lyons as he established a reputation for being "the finest freshman ball-player in the state."

A high-spirited student body's cheers, the smell of popcorn, and, one night, an entertaining ref made us forget for awhile.

Some of the action in our hard-won victory over East Tennessee.

"Watch those elbows!"

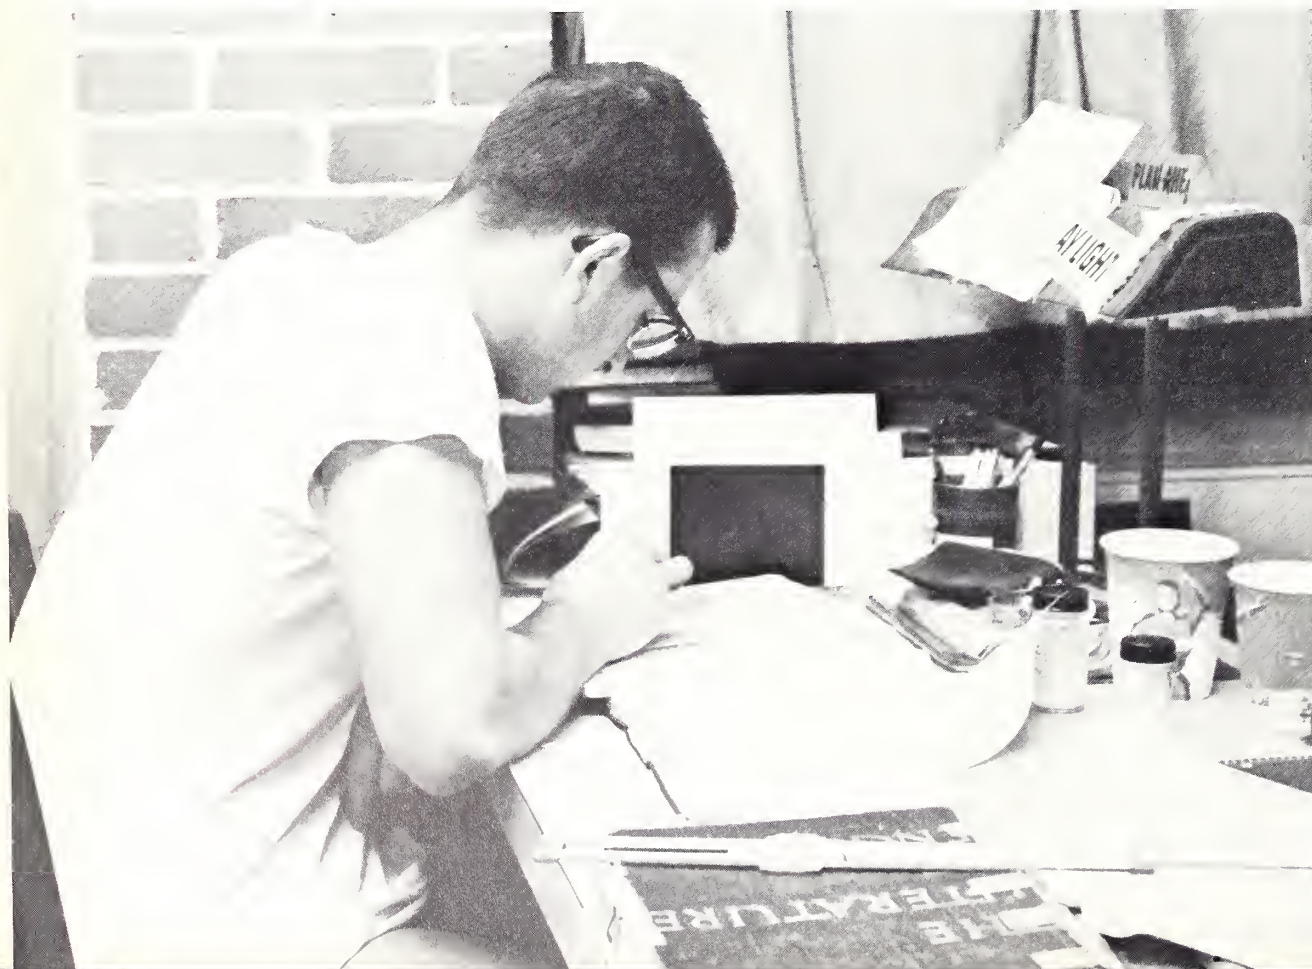

But soon exams were upon us and there was no escape—only dex and guts and tough-minded will power. Late hours and pages of notes, research papers and nights at the library; cramming, cramming, cramming for something we should have learned two months before.

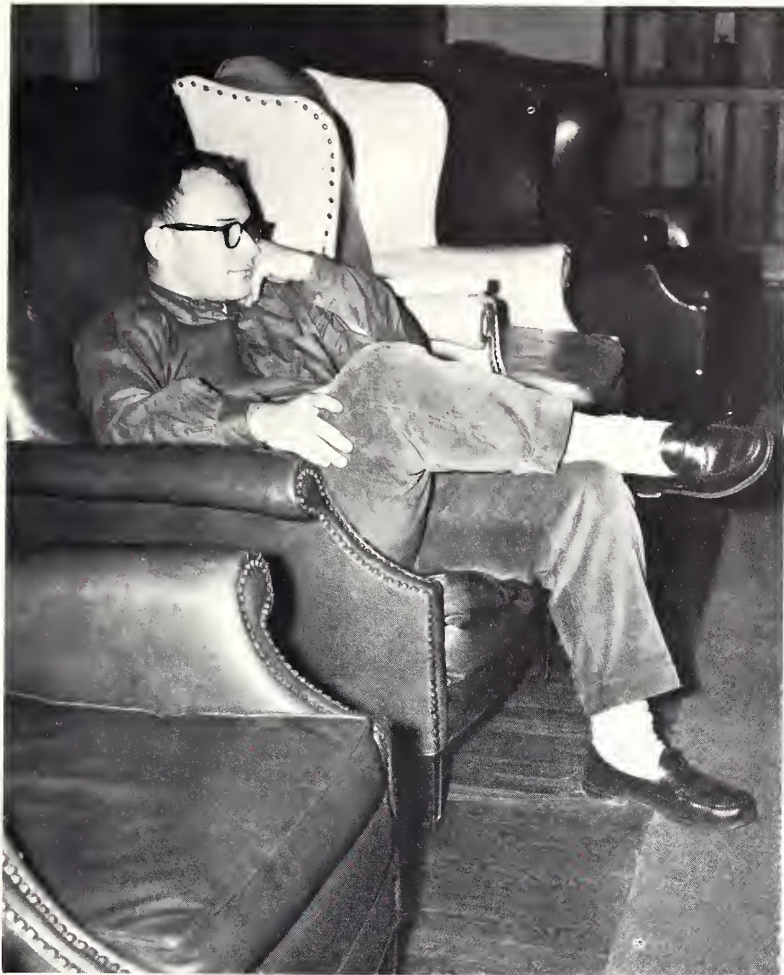

Study time is a lonely time. We were by ourselves, and brass thoughts rudely forced their way into our minds, and the page before us squirmed with little snake-like letters until we wanted to be sick—but we weren't. We hit it hard; then we sat

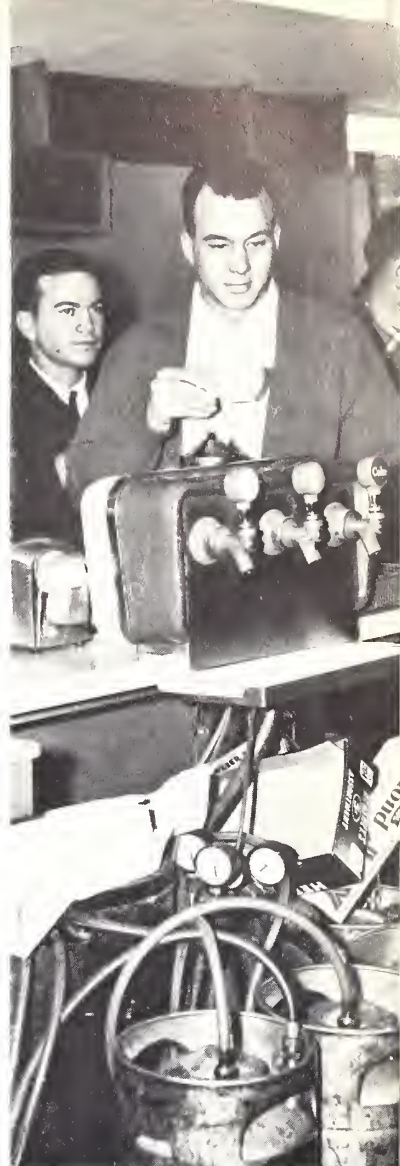

. . . research papers and nights at the library.

. . . a lonely time—with a slide rule and a Handbook of Chemistry and Physics; Forty-First Edition.

"... as soon as this program is over."

"... no more dex 'til May."

"OK, but this is the last game."

back and waited . . . but waited for what? A repetition of the past? A repetition of the television and pool nights which would necessitate more cramming? Perhaps. But certainly we waited for winter to go away. January and February were people we didn't like.

By the end of February, all that remained of winter was slush. We stood on the cleaned sidewalk, still clothed in our heavy coats, and looked back at him as though he were one we were not sorry to see die. We looked back one last time to see what he had done to our campus and to us; then we walked into March and sent our heavy coats home.

SPRING

Spring here was like a drunk man; it was reckless and uncontrolled, splashing color and fragrance onto the Wofford campus. The robin and the blue sky came first, then the camellias and, finally, the azaleas. Spring was as unconcerned and uninhibited as a young man in firstlove.

But more than the color and the fragrance, spring brought the feeling and the desire—"mixing memory and desire." It made us want to get hot so we could quench our thirst; it made us want to run and shout so we could know the sweet physical feeling of being tired.

Yes, there was an itching. We tried coffee and cigarettes and when they didn't work, we unconsciously reached for another cigarette. The itching was there, and we laughed when someone remarked that it was the same with a houn' dog. We laughed, but we disagreed a little.

Spring was like a drunk man.

Cadet Witmer and date twist it.

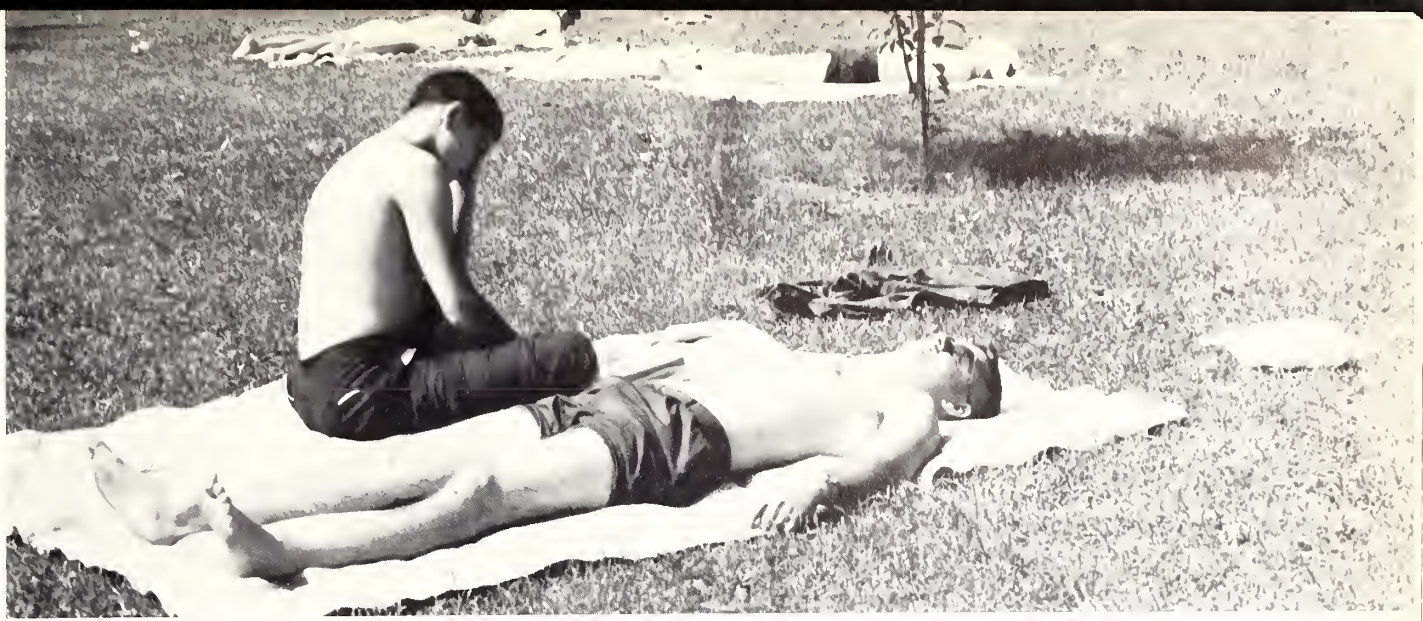

By the night of the Military Ball, we were ready for spring. She was coming, but she was in no hurry. We waited like a boy expecting the girl he loves. We looked repeatedly at our watches, and we knew she would be here because the itching was there.

The PRs execute the saber salute for Cadet Ingle and Maida.

Col. Griffin presents roses to Miss Ruth Lee Phillips, sponsor for Scabbard and Blade.

It was there that night when we shaved and stepped into our uniforms—those of us who had them—and picked up our dates. The key had turned—we were ready to “jook it,” and the Catalinas provided a way.

Worship of the Great Sun God.

With the spring comes warmth and half-rubber.

The sun walked out one day and laughed a throaty, masculine laugh and told us she was here. Then we emerged from the dark of the caves where the radiator sounds and the tired smells were. We came out into the sun and the spring blinking and rubbing our eyes, equipped with blankets and shades and transistors to where we would pay homage to Sol. It was good to be there. It was a physical feeling.

Day was the house of Sol, but night was feminine. It was a time to ride out in a convertible or simply to sit on the Wightman balcony and tell jokes and discover how much more we liked someone.

We discovered also that we no longer resented the "no parking signs." We no longer wanted to park; we merely walked by and smiled.

And it was good to sit on the steps and smoke and look forward a little and backward a little, but mostly, just be—right now—and love it.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Under the new constitution of May, 1961, the Student Government Association was divided into three separate powers; the executive, the legislative, and the judicial branches.

After one year's experience in the new governmental setup, it is felt that the new constitution and its processes have been most representative and successful.

The Executive Cabinet is composed of the four student body officers and the Presidents of the four classes. An Attorney General, who is appointed by the Student Body President, is the ninth member of the Executive Cabinet.

Since all executive powers are vested in the President, the Cabinet acts in an advisory capacity with special duties to perform in the governmental processes.

DON GREINER
President of the Student Government

EXECUTIVE CABINET. Bobby Richardson, Glenn Orr, Gene Powell, Don Greiner, Don Johnson, Peden McLeod, Harry Bryant.

THE SENATE

The legislative branch of the Student Government is in the form of a Student Senate consisting of elected class representatives. The adoption of detailed Senate rules for procedure and the formations of standing Senate committees were the first major chores undertaken by the student lawmakers. Upon completion of these initial tasks the Senate proceeded head-long into carrying out the regular functions of an efficient and active legislative body. These functions were in the form of laws, acts, and resolutions—all for true representation of the students.

It is felt that the experience gained during the first year of the Senate will give the student body a well-rounded nucleus of able leaders for the coming years.

The Wofford College Senate.

GENE POWELL
Vice-President of the Student Government

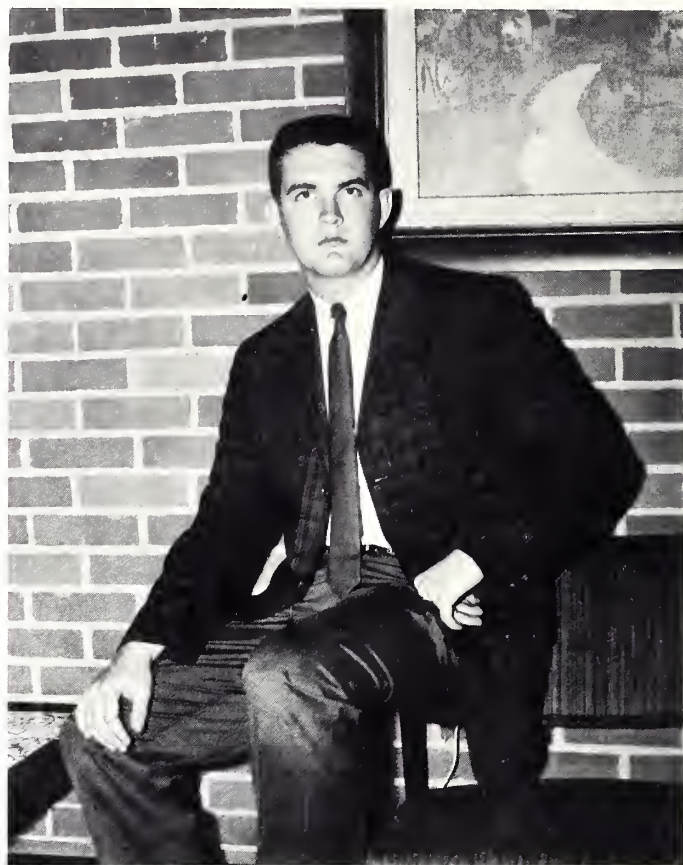

THE JUDICIAL COUNCIL. Leon Patterson, Dan Lewis, Hal Looney.

THE JUDICIAL BRANCH

The judicial powers of the Student Government are vested in the Judicial Council. The Judicial Council interprets the Student Government Constitution, and acting with three representatives from the faculty and administration, the three student Associate Justices form a committee to give a fair, impartial hearing to any student who is charged with bringing discredit upon himself or Wofford College by his conduct and to recommend disciplinary action to the proper authorities. The Judicial Branch has already proven within its short existence to be a vital, respected and successful branch of the new Student Government.

STATE STUDENT LEGISLATURE

The South Carolina State Student Legislature is composed of the college and university students of the state of South Carolina. The Legislature meets in Columbia bi-annually using the facilities of the State House in order to present their governmental views upon current and important county, state, and national issues through a mature, realistic, knowledgeable, and orderly process.

THE STATE STUDENT LEGISLATURE. Ted McCulloch, Stewart Bauknight, Bud Whetsell, Gene Powell, Buddy Parnell, Bobby Richardson, Tommy Boulware.

THE DEBATE TEAM

The Debate Team is an important part of the extra-curricular activities in that they furnish valuable experience to students interested in law, history, or any phase of the curriculum concerning current events and related major topics of concern. The debate activities replace the functions of the old literary societies, by providing interesting and educational dueling grounds for collegiate orators. The oratory team debates its grounds throughout the academic year in various intercollegiate tournaments with schools in the general area.

THE BOHEMIAN

An idea was born in the warmth of spring, it was nourished through the sweet summer months, and was forced rudely into being in the fall. That idea has become the 1962 BOHEMIAN.

As dead leaves fell and winter drove in upon us, the metal eye was clicking, clicking, clicking. And as the frozen ground thawed, the pictures and the words and the sweat went together to make a book.

A group of hard working, uncomplaining Trojans and a faithful little photographer are responsible. Many, many thanks. And good luck Melford!

THE OLD GOLD AND BLACK

The Old Gold and Black survived another year of penny pinching and hurried moments. A complete, but unexpected, overhaul of the staff took place at the end of first semester, for better or for worse. The small, loyal staff labored the long hours of many nights in order to produce an often criticized and seldom praised newspaper.

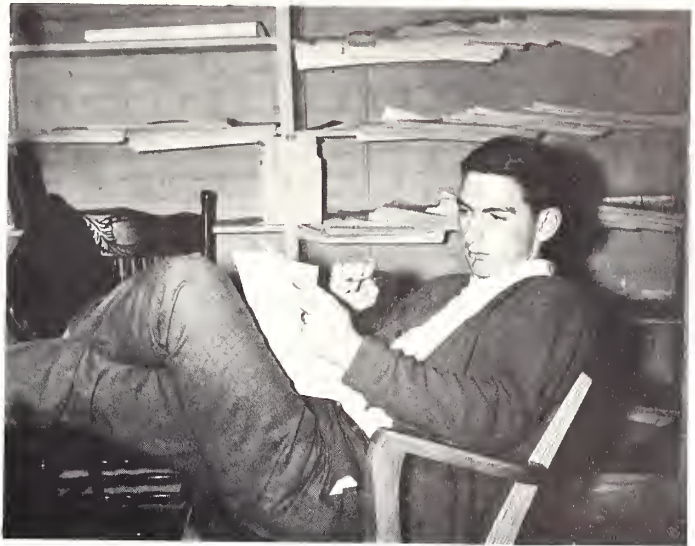

With expert guidance from the Publications Board, the Old Gold and Black had another successful year as the news media for the Wofford College Student Body.

THE JOURNAL

The Journal is the college's contribution to the literary world, and as such, furnishes students an opportunity to exercise their creative talents.

In its heart of hearts The Journal aspires to intellectual pre-eminence and creative dominance among the literary magazines of Southern schools. The idea pales under the withering glare of reality, so The Journal accepts the consequences of the limited dream and strives to reflect as honestly (and as selectively) as it can the creative thinking of Wofford and as an indication of the general level of literary enthusiasm The Journal has long been recognized as an excellent barometer.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

The Wofford College Publications Board is composed of faculty and student representatives. The basic purpose of the Board is to maintain the three student publications—The Old Gold and Black, The Journal, and the BOHEMIAN. Through a controlled budget and ample authority the Board has done a magnificent job in keeping high the standards and quality of the publications.

STUDENT CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION

The Wofford College Student Christian Association recognizes the need for experiences in the spiritual growth of men. It is the purpose of the SCA to bring men together in interdenominational fellowship and enhance the value of such experiences. Since every student is a member, the SCA strives to present an extensive program in an effort to make the Christian spirit a dynamic and vital influence in the student's life.

MINISTERIAL UNION

Men who have made the decision or have given consideration to serving mankind through the ministry and the church form the Ministerial Union at Wofford.

The main goal of the Ministerial Union is to present each member with a well-rounded idea of what the ministerial life is like in reality and practice.

Through the efforts of its Advisor, Mr. W. W. Wilson, and its useful programs, the ministerial student's scope and outlook is broadened to better prepare him for seminary and life as a minister.

THE MINISTERIAL UNION. Frank Buie, James Griffith, Gene Harper, Ken Goodson, Harold Jayroe, Roy Dickerson, Jim Carter, Blease Graham, Will Brown, Thurmond Anderson, Henry Smith, Mike Vandiver, Sion Bell, Bill Cobb.

METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT

THE METHODIST STUDENT MOVEMENT

The Baptist Student Union endeavors to relate each Baptist and Baptist preference student to a Baptist church in the college community and encourages active participation on the part of every commuting student in his own home church. At Wofford, the BSU sponsors a weekly devotional on Thursday in Mickle Chapel and a monthly Bible study session at the Student Center. The work of the BSU is directed by an organized council of students, a local minister, and a faculty advisor.

THE BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The city-wide MSM is the central coordinating group for all Methodist student organizations on the various college campuses in Spartanburg. This organization comes under larger state and national groups and conferences. The MSM meets weekly sponsoring interesting meetings with various debates, discussions, and talks of wide interest. Their concern and study reaches out to the interests and beliefs of its members. The program leaders are of several interests and are of such professions as professors, city businessmen, and ministers.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The ROTC cadet learns many things. He knows the chain of command from the President of the United States to cadet nothing. He knows how to stand so that his pants legs fit. By the end of the first semester he has learned to do the Rain Dance on Monday morning, and at the end of the second year he can look at a map and distinguish between a river and a road.

THE WOFFORD COLLEGE PERSHING RIFLES

PERSHING RIFLES

The Wofford College unit of the Pershing Rifles, under the leadership of Captain Jim Tindal, had an active year and successful program in drill precision. The drill unit performed in such activities as Christmas Parades, homecoming festivities, and as special escorts at the Military Ball.

Although a relatively new organization, the unit has worked hard together with its advisors, Captain Murray Lewis and Sergeant Gordon Woodley, to produce a crack drill team.

THE WOFFORD COLLEGE RIFLE TEAM. Bobby Joiner, Laurens Fort, Chip Steele, Tom McLeod, Frank Foster, Benny Logan, John Currie, Howard Waddell, Sam Watson, David Nicholson.

RIFLE TEAM

Among the extra-curricular activities at Wofford College, the Rifle Team is one of high representation. It is composed of men with a great deal of shooting ability and competitive spirit. Captain Murray Lewis was advisor and Sergeant Carl Beck acted as instructor. The team participated in a big schedule of matches, taking home several honors and proudly representing the name of Wofford.

THE CENTRAL DANCE ASSOCIATION. Danny Brake, Jay Singletary, Ronnie Ingle, Chris Paul, Charles Mackey.

CENTRAL DANCE ASSOCIATION

RONNIE INGLE, President

The CDA functions as a type of social committee responsible for campus-wide social activities throughout the school year. The organization is supported by membership within the student body. The CDA sponsored several general dances after football contests along with a Homecoming weekend. The high point of the social season is the Winter Ball, at which the Central Dance Association featured the Buddy "Night Train" Morrow Orchestra.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The main function of the Inter-Fraternity Council is to act as an administrator for the six national Greek letter fraternities on the Wofford campus. All fraternity rules and regulations are reviewed and considered by the IFC. The Council also is important in acting as a connecting link between the College Administration and the fraternities. Beginning with the coming school year, the IFC will take charge of the College social functions since it has absorbed the functions of the Central Dance Association.

THE WOFFORD COLLEGE GLEE CLUB

GLEE CLUB

PROFESSOR SAM MOYER, Director

One of the most unique experiences a Wofford boy can have is that of being a member of "Sam's Glee Club." Over the years this group of male voices has built for itself the reputation of being one of the finest, most professional groups in the state.

However, this reputation has not been casually maintained. Long rehearsal sessions, a fight for practice time, and hours of work by each individual were the tangible factors of the success of the 1961-62 Glee Club; but these things alone can not account for the spirit. What else then? A dedicated man named Sam and the desire of some sixty men.

Situated in the new Music Building, "Sam's Temple of Culture," the Glee Club readied itself for such performances as the annual Festival of Christmas Music, a special program for the Spartanburg Automobile Show, and the annual, highly praised Spring Tour and Concert.

PHI BETA KAPPA

For over a century and a half, election to Phi Beta Kappa has been a recognition of intellectual capacities well employed, especially in acquiring an education in the liberal arts and sciences.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded December 5, 1776, at William and Mary College, in Williamsburg, Virginia. It was the first society to have a Greek letter name. From that humble beginning in one of the cradles of the American nation and its transplanting to other parts of the country, the society has spread out throughout the entire nation and has become one of the most respected societies of its kind in the world. Over one hundred fifty chapters are now in existence.

The Wofford Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, Beta Chapter of South Carolina, was chartered in January of 1941. The chapter was granted to the holders of the key who officially were connected with the college at that time. It is one of two chapters in the state, the other being Alpha chapter at the University of South Carolina.

BLUE KEY

Blue Key National Honor Fraternity was organized in 1924 at the University of Florida with no real intent of becoming a national organization. However, after the first few meetings, the group of campus leaders passed their ideas on to other schools—today Blue Key holds a firm national footing. Blue Key taps a man as a person of all around ability and good character and who possesses the qualities of leadership and the confidence of his fellow students. Blue Key recognizes upperclassmen of established ability twice each year at its tapping ceremonies on the college's honor days.

Being a service organization, Blue Key undertakes various projects each year. Primary projects are the Blue Key Student Directory and the King Teen weekend.

OFFICERS. CHRIS PAUL, President; ALLEN STOKES, LEON PATTERSON, C. W. SMITH.

CIRCLE "K"

The Circle "K" Club at Wofford is a service organization devoted to both college and community progress. Since Circle "K" was organized in 1961, it has grown and made immense progress, becoming a prominent and important organization at Wofford.

This year the club contributed its funds raised to the Spartanburg Heart Fund. Circle "K" at Wofford is under the direction of the Spartanburg Kiwanis Club and works in close connection with the local Kiwanians.

DELTA PHI ALPHA

This national honorary German fraternity was founded on the Wofford campus in 1929. Alpha chapter holds something of an old and important tradition. The membership is small and elite, being one of the highest honors for a student of modern languages to attain while at Wofford. The aim of the fraternity other than to honor those of superior achievement, is to further the interests of the student in the German language and its background of folklore and tradition.

PI GAMMA MU

Pi Gamma Mu is a National Social Science Honor Society. It works toward the improvement of scholarship in the social studies, and advocates the use of integrity and understanding in dealing with social problems. It seeks to supplement and support, but not to supplant existing social science organizations by promoting sociability and attendance in coping with problems and issues.

AMERICAN CHEMICAL SOCIETY

LAMAR MARSH, President

The American Chemical Society at Wofford encourages interest in the sciences, especially in the field of chemistry. This society, with its student affiliates, is one of the highest regarded organizations in all areas of chemistry and chemical engineering.

The yearly program has been of highest interest—including several field trips, student demonstrations, and outside speakers. The main project of the society this year was the sponsorship of the regional science fair. Dr. James C. Loftin served as faculty advisor.

THE PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY. Buddy Foy, Stewart Funderburk, James Baughcome, James Boozer, Allan Holcomb, Bill Hendrix, Jamie Smith, Dr. W. P. PRE-MEDICAL SOCIETY

The Pre-Medical Society was organized early in the fall of 1961. Because of past difficulties, the idea and possibility of a combination Pre-Medical and Biological Society was abandoned and a new society consisting of pre-medical and pre-dental students was organized. The aim of this society is to acquaint the student with the professional fields which he is striving toward. The Society has two advisors, Dr. W. P. Cavin of the faculty and Dr. J. V. Jeffers, a practicing surgeon in Spartanburg.

The future goal of the society is to establish a chapter in the National Pre-Medical Society, Alpha Epsilon Delta, and a program by which the students may get an even closer look at their future professions in the surrounding hospitals and clinics.

The Scabbard and Blade is a national military honor fraternity, recognizing and honoring the outstanding advanced military students at Wofford each year. Its basic purpose is to cultivate the merit of leadership in its members. This year the Scabbard and Blade sponsored an outstanding Military Ball through some concentrated effort and cooperation with the student body. Cadet Glenn Orr served as Commander of Scabbard and Blade.

PI KAPPA PHI

With the gathering of the fold in September the cycle of activities of Pi Kappa Phi was renewed. Each brother raised his mug and came forth with a rousing toast to the continued success of the "Pi Kapps". The 1961-62 school year saw the beginning of a totally new experience in friendship and brotherhood for some twenty-odd pledges, while at the same time it marked the end of an equally unique experience for our graduating brothers.

Our Super Sophisticates, led by our two Archons for the year, Charlie Graham and Tommy Mull, conducted Zeta Chapter to another successful year of social activities highlighted by our traditional Rose Ball, and there was mid-semester at the beach with Matilda and half-orange. Mr.

"Gant Shirt" himself, Ray McLees, reminded the brothers of the correct "Ivy" dress to be worn, while the pledge class, under the guidance of Tag Grant, were out selling their candy.

GREEK

A tenor sax blared out, "swinging like a rusty axe," as onto the floor of the armory poured the couples, and the twisting began. On one side of the room an SAE and a Kappa Sig were joking and laughing; at one table a KA and a Pi Kapp were complimenting each other's dates. There was truly a spirit of interfraternity. It was a dream realized—it was our first "Greek Weekend."

Bringing together Wofford's six social fraternities under the roof of the Spartanburg Armory for two great kick-outs, the Interfraternity Council, under the leadership of John McKinney, took an important step toward building healthy interfraternity relations.

On Friday night it was twisting to the music of the Del-Vikings, and the piano of Huey Smith. The Hearts provided the sound for Saturday night.

It was a wild weekend, and, we hope, the beginning of another "Wofford tradition."

Bob and Spookey also have "the spirit."

Where did we get all the KAs?

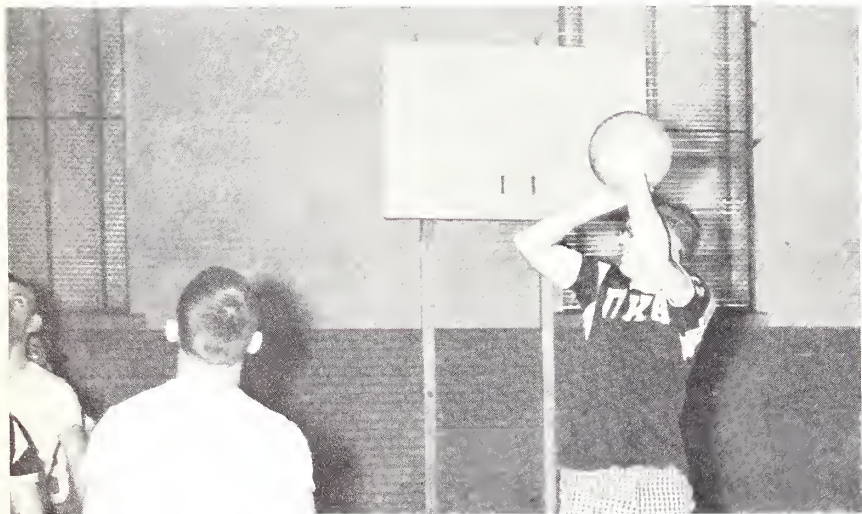

Merritt and the boys engage in a favorite SAE pastime.

What is fraternity?
No collection of words can answer this question or communicate the feeling.
On these two pages we have attempted to show rather than tell what fraternity is.
However, there is a good Methodist adjective that might come close—togetherness.

Head Coach and Athletic Director

FOOTBALL

The success of the past season's Terrier team is largely due to the efforts of a close-working group of five men. This group is the Wofford College Coaching Staff which is ably headed by Head Football Coach and Athletic Director Conley T. Snidow. Coach Snidow has completed his ninth year at Wofford during which time he has compiled an impressive won-lost record. The staff is rounded out by Bill McCarren, Gene Alexander, Jim Brakefield, and trainer, Vernon Caldwell. This group has commanded the respect of fans and players and is to be commended for the skillful handling of a difficult job.

HOYT BURNETT
Captain of the 1961 Terriers

THE TEAM

The Terriers of Wofford College growled loudly this past season as they tied the mighty Lenoir-Rhyne Bears and rolled over Presbyterian and Elon, and, in spite of heartbreaking losses to Howard, Davidson, and Tampa, continued to growl loudly as they went on through the season to cop the Little Three honors in South Carolina.

The Terriers were captained by senior Hoyt Burnett from Saluda, S. C., who was named to the All-State Team at the end of the season. Also receiving honors were Lewis Flint, Gary Whitlock, and Bob "Rocket" Roma. Congratulations to the 1961 Terriers.

THE 1961 WOFFORD COLLEGE TERRIERS.

Little All-American Dan Lewis

DAN LEWIS

Over the past four years many a guard has looked up from his position to find himself facing a freckled giant. This giant is the already legendary Dan Lewis.

Measuring six feet and weighing in at 230 pounds, the mighty man from Columbia has had much to do with the success of Wofford's last four football teams. He has lettered four years and made the All-State Team in 1960 and 1961. Dan's brilliant college football career was consummated this past winter when the modest senior was named to the 1961 Little All-American squad.

THE SENIORS

The 1962 BOHEMIAN takes this opportunity to pay tribute to four outstanding men. These four men, Hoyt Burnett, Lewis Flint, Glenn Greene, and Gary Whitlock have for four years given their time and efforts to the Wofford Terriers. Captain Hoyt Burnett was one of the greatest ends ever to wear the Old Gold and Black. Smart, aggressive Lewis Flint at center was one of Wofford's best small linemen since Alf McGinnis. Center Glenn Greene earned for himself the title of "the hardest hitting man on the team." And dependable, versatile Gary Whitlock piled up over 2,000 yards in total offense during his college career.

BASKETBALL

At the first of the 1961-62 basketball season the chances of a comeback for the Terrier cagers looked dismal. Lacking height and depth, Coach Gene Alexander had to rely almost totally on five men—Captain Charlie Cluff, Boyce Berry, Ronnie Russell, Buddy Cubitt, and freshman George Lyons. When a sprained ankle knocked Russell out and final exams ended Cubitt's 61-62 career, a gloomy Alexander looked to his slim bench and picked freshmen Richard Prough and Paul Bagwell, who turned in creditable performances.

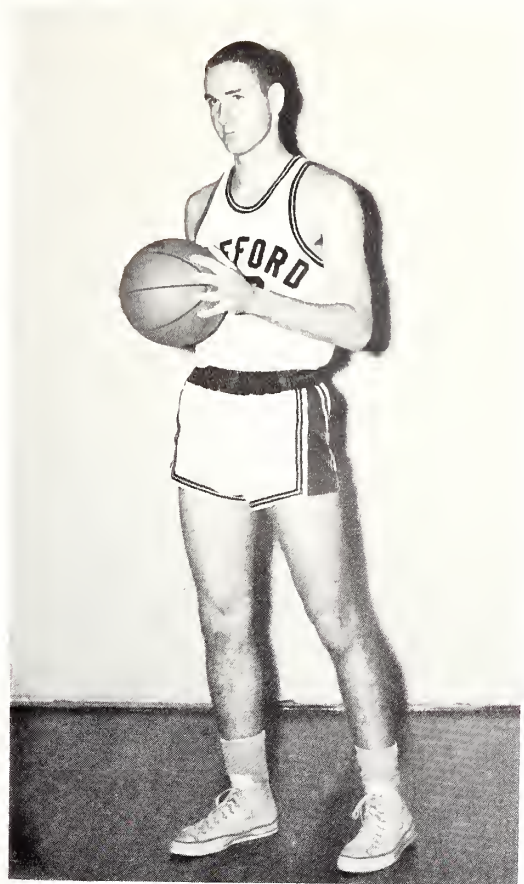

With the experience gained by the freshmen and the return of Russell, Wofford slowly began to improve and finished the season with an eight-game winning streak.

Captain LOWELL CURRY

Coach Jim Brakefield fielded a better-than-average diamond squad for the 1962 season which faced an eighteen-game schedule. Bill Barnhill and Don Sherill again pounded opposing pitchers with their big bats.

The only weak spot in the Terrier line-up was the pitching staff with ace Lowell Curry as the most experienced in this department. Curry hurled a fine season and was backed up by Hal Looney, and Bob Shirley. Other starters included Fred Welch, A. C. English, Danny Dean, Benny Brannon, Bob Thomas, Bruce Smith, Chuck Eschenbach, and Tim Jones.

Cold, rainy weather forced the 1962 edition of the Wofford College tennis team into a slow start. The netmen, led by Captain Tommy Mull, are composed of veterans as well as first-year men.

Returning from 1961 are John Straiton, and Dino Drosas, backed up by freshmen Leo Elvington, Jim Austelle, Joel Campbell, and Mike Suggs.

INTRAMURAL SPORTS

Intramural sports are a necessity to any well-balanced college and Wofford is no exception. The 1961-62 season was a season of high competition in football, basketball, softball, volleyball, ping-pong, and several of the other minor sports.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon captured the football trophy with considerable ease, being led by All-Stars Charlie Wade and John Lowry. Kappa Alpha and Kappa Sigma proved to be the strongest contenders against the champion SAEs, but ran out of gas in the final games of the season.

Making the 1961-62 All-Star football team were: Charlie Wade, Wally Fridy, Robert Bittle, Clyde Ketter, Lowell Curry, Glenn Orr, and John Lowry.

The Intramural program was headed by Professor W. W. Scheerer and Student Director, Billy Barnhill.

The Board of Trustees, under the direction of Chairman Edward K. Hardin, has again this year worked for a better Wofford. This winter the debt of the Milliken Science Hall was retired, and next year, thanks to them, a new, ultra-modern dormitory will be opened. The future also looks bright as plans for a much-needed Student Activities Center were announced. Wofford owes the Trustees a sincere vote of thanks for their labors. Under their guidance Wofford is assured of always having a bright and dynamic future.

DR. CHARLES FRANKLIN MARSH, President of the College

THE PRESIDENT

Dr. Marsh about to burn the mortgage on the Miliken Science Hall.

Four years ago there arrived on the campus a man who was to assume the responsibilities of President of Wofford College. This man was Dr. Charles F. Marsh. Emphasizing from the first those traits for which the school has stood—character, scholarship, leadership, and humility—he has gained the respect and admiration of his colleagues and the students. Under his brilliant administration Wofford has progressed spiritually and physically, and it is our sincere belief that she will continue to do so.

THE FACULTY

A striking feature of Wofford's history has been the fact that a surprisingly large number of faculty members have chosen to remain with this small college throughout their teaching careers, many for forty or more years. Why has Wofford seemed a good place to spend one's life? Partly because it is a small liberal arts college, for men only, with a large degree of harmony and cooperation among administration, faculty, and students; in no small measure because it is the heir of a fine tradition and enjoys a respectable reputation in educational circles; but most of all, for most Wofford teachers, because Wofford is dedicated to the ideal of uniting religion and learning in the training of men.

Anxiously awaiting the Tuesday "Rut".

EPILOGUE

The curfew tolls the knell of parting day . .

Someone wrote that line over two hundred years ago—it may be a good line to end a book with.

Can one say it has been sweet or bitter or happy or sad or good or bad or . . . ?

We do not think so. But if this question needs an answer, ask that person who comes out when you are apart from. Probably he knows, for he has seen it.
